WHAT IS GRANITE

Granite is a hard, durable, natural igneous rock composed mainly of quartz, feldspar, and mica. It's widely used in construction and interior decoration due to its aesthetic appeal and strength.

Choose the granite that suits you

Granite creates a special visual effect through the unique interplay of lines, shading and structures. Sometimes speckled, sometimes uniform, but always so different, so unique. This unpredictability is characteristic of a product that was modelled by nature.

It is also a versatile material for various applications that add an aesthetic value to your interior and exterior.

The fact that this ancient material is also offered in various sizes, standard thicknesses of 2 and 3 cm (and up to 20 cm on request) and a broad range of possible surface finishes ensures a personal touch.

A selection of our finishes

The finishes shown here are a selection of the surface finishes Brachot offers as standard. We are also constantly developing new finishes and optimising existing ones at Brachot, which ensures that we can find the finish best suited to the material, your tastes, and the style of your home in every case.

Anzano

Although this semi-coarse finish is somewhat coarser than a matt or polished finish, it still feels very satisfying and soft. The non-slip result still has a beautiful satin shine to it.

Polished

Without a doubt, the glossiest and smoothest finish, highlighting the colours, patterns, and white spots. Dark shades create a mirror effect.

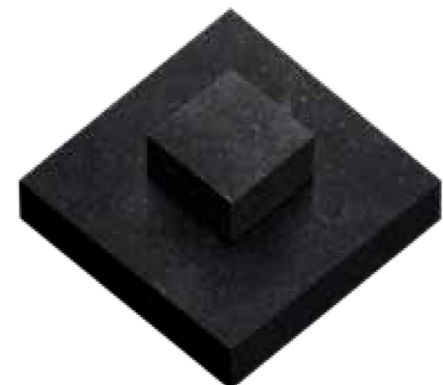

Letano

This original, matt, and slightly brushed finish enhances the natural colour of granite. The result is a 'leather feel'.

Honed

The surface is sanded until a warm, matt shine is obtained. The grain size during sanding determines the final result.

Extremely strong and maintenance- friendly

Granite is the hardest of all types of natural stone. As a result, this natural material is highly scratch, heat, acid and stain-resistant. So it can withstand decades of intensive use, in the kitchen as a floor or kitchen worktop, for example. In addition, granite can also be used perfectly indoors and outdoors as wall and façade cladding, as well as for patios.

Granite is also very maintenance-friendly. With the right cleaning and protection products adapted to the use, soiling and surface coarseness, granite will remain intact for many decades. In fact, it gets more beautiful over time.
